LARGEST WEEKLY CIRCULATION IN CHICAGO.

The Chicago Eagle numbers among its subscribers the most influential, most prosperous and most respected men in Chicago. It reaches nearly every man of standing in the community and all men who are members of public opinion or directors of public affairs. It is the guide, mentor and friend of every political leader of every shade of opinion. It is read by Government, State, County and City officials. It is read by a big percentage of the legal fraternity, including bench and bar. It is the favorite of Chicago's leading business men. It reaches all classes in their homes. It is read by the Fire Department. It is read by the Police Department. It is in every public office and every public library. It is not controlled by any cheap, cheap or crooked advertising agency. In the nineteen years of its existence it has managed to build up a large circulation and great business without the aid of professional advertising sharks. That is why it is so independent, so popular and so strong. The Chicago Eagle is one paper that has never depended upon advertising agents for a circulation. It has one of its own.

SOME MORE OF ROOSEVELT'S GOOD WORK.

President Roosevelt has appointed a commission of five men to report on methods of improving the social conditions of farm life. Next to the conservation of national resources, he regards the well-being of the farmer as the chief problem before the nation. On the man who gives us the materials for clothes and food the entire nation depends. Through him society is rooted in the land. Many of the great economic improvements in late years have been directed to the betterment of farming. The Department of Agriculture has been working to increase the productivity of the land, to instruct farmers in the best methods of cultivation. All the development of irrigation, the establishment of rural postal delivery, the improvement of waterways and railroads over which the product of the land is sent to the cities, the good roads movement, the creation of State agricultural colleges, the regeneration of the district school system, have tended to make farming more prosperous and the farmer healthier and better instructed. But most of this work has dealt in land and crops and tools and roads; it has in large measure missed the human being. The President's most inspiring idea, his most statesmanlike move, is the belief that it is the man that counts. We must help and improve human beings. We must make farm life so attractive that the best strength of the nation will live in it. At present the brilliant prizes of life seem to lie in the city, and too many capable boys are tempted away from the soil. To bring to the farm the essential comforts and intellectual interests of the cities, to give farm boy and farm girl every chance for self-improvement, to secure to the farmer his proper share of the profit of his labor, to make life in the country most worth living—this is the problem the solution of which will strengthen the foundations of national prosperity. Measures to be considered by the commission are the establishment of postal savings banks, the creation of rural parcel post, by which the farmer may more easily get the products of manufacture, the increase of "co-operation between farmers for buying, selling and borrowing," and the "better adaptation of rural schools to the training of children for life on the farm."

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION ON RIGHT TRACK.

The American Bar Association, in drafting its code of ethics at Seattle recently, formulated very clearly rules of conduct which have long seemed imperative to the layman as well as to the leaders of the bar. The movement to correct certain abuses which have too often hampered or delayed the course of justice is timely, and an evasive attitude would have done much to lessen the esteem in which the unoffending members of the profession are held. The new canons do not strike merely at the shysters and the tricksters, whose influence, however noxious, has never been a serious menace to the prestige of the bar, but deals in a comprehensive way with those violations of the spirit of justice which are masked behind legal usage. Few members of the community are called upon to occupy positions of such trust as the lawyer, and it is particularly needful that the younger members of the profession should be made to appreciate their responsibility in this regard. One of the articles in the code makes it morally obligatory upon counsel to expose any case of corrupt, dishonest conduct in their own profession which comes to their notice. Lawyers in the past, while ready to condemn in private corrupt practices, have rarely shown any eagerness to prefer such charges or to assist in conducting a prosecution. Another frequent abuse of justice which is sharply criticized is the practice of bringing actions at law which have no validity in fact, but which are intended merely to harass or injure the opposite party. In summing up the duty of the lawyer toward his client and the community the code covers most of the points comprehensively when it says that he should strive to make his conduct square with the moral as well as the statute law: "No client, corporate or individual, however powerful, nor any cause, civil or political, however important, is entitled to receive, nor should any lawyer render, any service or advice involving disloyalty to the law, whose ministers we are, or disrespect of the judicial office, which we are bound to uphold, or corruption of any person or persons exercising a public office or private trust, or deception or betrayal of the public." One of the most important actions of the convention was the passage of a resolution calling upon Congress and the various States to formulate legislation restricting appeals in both civil and criminal actions to instances where actual prejudice is shown. The right of appeal has been used so offensively of recent years, particularly by large corporations, to defeat the ends of justice, and cases have been tried so often upon minute technicalities rather than upon their merits that the public patience has become exhausted. The outcome of the association's labors will certainly be watched with the liveliest interest by the whole people.

EAGLETS.

Coroner Peter M. Hoffman has clear sailing in his campaign for re-election. His grand record has rallied to his support the leading business and professional men of both parties. His majority will be a large one.

Joseph E. Bidwell, Jr., has shown himself as Clerk of the Circuit Court to be a faithful servant of the people, and there is no reason why an able and competent official like him should be retired. Vote for him.

James C. Dooley has by his brilliant, clean and honest career earned a place on the bench and every citizen who believes in electing only the best fitted men as Judges will cast a ballot for him for Municipal Judge.

Paul A. Hazard is a business man of ability and experience, and his election as Sanitary Trustee will prove a benefit to the people.

No mistake will be made in voting for Cyril R. Jandus for Municipal Judge. He is an able, honest and fearless man, whose election is desired in the interests of a clean judiciary.

A. R. Porter deserves to be re-elected Clerk of the Appellate Court and he will be. His record is an honest, painstaking and able one and he has the hearty endorsement of the leading attorneys of Chicago.

John J. McLaughlin's good record and widespread popularity insures his re-election to the Legislature from the Nineteenth District by a handsome plurality.

Illinois is proud of her brilliant, fearless and honest Representative in the United States Senate, Albert J. Hopkins.

John R. Caverly is making one of the best City Attorneys Chicago has ever had, and no official in Chicago enjoys a more widespread popularity.

John E. Owens, the well known political leader and former City Attorney, is liked and respected by everybody that knows him.

John Taylor Booz, the able and well known attorney, is talked of by many for Circuit Court Judge.

One of the ablest and most highly respected leaders in the business world of Chicago is Albert G. Wheeler.

Jacob W. Loeb has earned by his clean and brilliant record as a lawyer a high place in the estimation of both bench and bar in Cook County.

Clyde A. Morrison, the able assistant City Attorney, is one of the best liked and hardest working young Republican leaders in Illinois.

James S. Hopkins, the popular master in chancery, would make an excellent Judge of the Circuit Court.

Alderman Arthur Josselti is making a splendid record in the City Council. The Twenty-second ward never had an able or more popular alderman.

No better man can be elected to the Municipal Court this fall than Cyril R. Jandus, whose clean and able record as a lawyer and as a State Senator has made him popular with all classes of Chicagoans.

Congressman Henry Sherman Boutell is a sure winner in the Ninth District.

Senator Albert J. Hopkins has proven himself a courageous, honest and able representative of the people in the United States Senate and the best citizen of Illinois, irrespective of party affiliations, want to see him re-elected on the first ballot.

Edward Tilden has always been a worker in behalf of education, and the people should show their appreciation by electing him university trustee by a handsome majority. His election will be a credit to Illinois.

George W. Paullin has proven by his record on the Drainage Board to be a faithful, conscientious and industrious servant of the people and his re-election is justly deserved.

Vote for William Legner for Sanitary Trustee. He served the people honestly and ably before and he will do so again.

It is progressive, able and successful business men like George W. Paullin that are needed in public office, and his re-election as Sanitary Trustee, in which office he has served so well for three years, is desired in the best interests of the people at large.

One of the ablest and most popular candidates on the Democratic ticket is Joseph E. Flanagan, nominee for Sanitary District trustee. He is qualified in every way for the high position he aspires to and his election will be a source of satisfaction to all who believe in putting honest, successful and clean men in public office.

Mr. Flanagan is a member of the firm of Flanagan & Biedenweg, the largest art glass decorators in Chicago. W. C. Biedenweg, who is the partner of Mr. Flanagan, is one of Chicago's best known and most highly respected business men. Mr. Flanagan's business and public record commend him to the people as the right man to place on the drainage board.

In every office John F. Smulski has held he has proven himself an honest, painstaking and able public servant. Illinois has never had a better State Treasurer.

Martin B. Madden will be returned to Congress by a record-breaking majority. The people of the First District are fully conversant with his honest and hard working record and they have no intention of retiring such a useful and able public servant.

Henry Sherman Boutell has won the confidence and highest esteem of the people of Chicago by his brilliant and honest record in Congress and his re-election by the people of the Ninth District on November 3d is certain.

James C. Dooley is the right man to place on the Municipal Court bench. He has all the necessary qualifications that go to make an upright, fearless and just jurist. He is a brainy, forceful and wholesome man and his election on November 3 will do credit to the people of Chicago.

County Assessor Adam Wolf will be elected to the office he has held so well by a splendid majority. His honest record has made him popular all over Chicago and Cook county.

John J. McLaughlin has a walk-over for the Legislature in the Nineteenth District and he deserves to have, for he is an efficient, honest and hardworking public servant.

Judge Max Eberhart's clean and upright record entitles him to a re-election. He has shown his worth to the people during the years he has served on the bench, and to retire such an honest and just judge would be a public loss.

A better man cannot be elected County Commissioner than George K. Schmidt. His record as a public official and a business man well qualifies him for the office.

No member of the National House of Representatives has an able or more brilliant record than Martin B. Madden and the people of the First District will show their appreciation of such faithful service by re-electing him on November 3d by a handsome majority.

County Recorder Abel Davis has made a spotless and honest record during the four years he has held this important position and he is entitled to the votes of all citizens who believe in rewarding faithful public servants.

Cyril R. Jandus has proven his worth as a public official and he deserves the support of all good citizens for Municipal Judge.

By his clean and honest record on the County Board, Walter Schrojda has earned a re-election as County Commissioner.

William H. Weber has earned by his splendid record as County Assessor a re-election to that office and it is the duty of every taxpayer to see that he is re-elected.

AT THE THEATERS

STUDEBAKER.

Two weeks without an empty seat in the theater at any performance is the record of the Studenbaker for the past fortnight. Fritz Scheff, the irresistible Fritz, is the particular attraction of Chicago theatergoers and her new comic opera, "The Prima Donna," is entirely worthy of the charm with which she invariably enhances her starring vehicles. Strange as it may seem, we are brought to a realization of the fact that we have not with us the same Fritz of distinctive comic opera fame. We are forced to view her in a new and unusual light and who will say but that the appreciation of a new Fritz Scheff is not even more satisfying, more interesting and more entertaining than ever? Madame Scheff is surrounded by a company which Chicago critics concede to be the best organization of its sort ever seen here.

GREAT NORTHERN.

Mortimer M. Theise's "Wine, Woman and Song," the successful musical comedy with the charming Bonita as the star, which comes to the Great Northern Theater next week, is the most elaborate, artistic and interesting production of its kind extant, and that its merit was promptly recognized was demonstrated by the phenomenal business it did last season at this theater, establishing a record that is not likely to be surpassed for many years to come. Bonita is not only a charming actress, but also a beautiful woman and became a popular favorite last season. A very clever and funny travesty on "Three Weeks" by Bonita and Lew Hearn is one of the big hits of the show. The engagement is for one week only.

AUDITORIUM.

Next week is the second and final successful week of "The Lion and the Mouse," the popular drama of financial cupidity barked by feminine cleverness, at the Auditorium Theater. Persistent curtain calls at the end of every act give positive testimony of its continued success during the brief run at popular prices. Oliver Doud Byron and Dorothy Donnelly, who interpret the leading roles in Klein's great play of love and political intrigue, are nightly securing greater favor with Chicago audiences. Mr. Byron appearing in the masterful role of "Ready Money" Ryder, and Miss Donnelly as the resourceful young woman who tames the financial "Lion."

Immediately following the engagement of "The Lion and the Mouse" biases forth the lavish musical production "Mary's Lamb," with the only Richard Carle as the star and moving spirit.

COLLEGE.

"Brown of Harvard," Rida Johnson Young's successful college play, will be seen at the beautiful College Theater next week. The piece ran the entire summer of 1906 at the Garrick Theater and was one of the biggest summer successes that Chicago has known. It tells a stirring story of college life, and whether you have ever gone to college or not you will be fascinated by it from start to finish. Albert Morrison will, of course, have Harry Woodruff's old part, and that he will be equal to the part goes without saying. He will be ably assisted by Thais Magrane, E. H. Calvert, Smith Davies, Morris McHugh and the rest of the splendid Marvin company.

MARLOWE.

"The Love Route," William Courtney's one-time success, will be the bill at the popular Marlowe Theater next week. The play which is one of the most fascinating ever written, tells a story of the fight between the railroad and ranchers. Mr. Phillips will appear as John Ashby and Miss Shaw as Allene Houston. The production at the Marlowe will be a gorgeous one in every detail.

STAR AND GARTER.

Commencing next week, the famous "Cracker Jacks" will make their tenth annual appearance, and they come here this season better in every respect than any prior time. This show is up to the minute from start to finish, and entirely out of the ordinary "bit of burlesque, carrying a coterie of thirty-six artists who will be seen in every line of entertainment that refreshes the mind and drives dull care away.
